832 repair to the cornfields and are soon followed by the young men, 834 who enjoy their company and take every liberty. The young men then return, and, if no hunting party offers, pass the day on 461 the tops of the huts, sleeping in the sun, or strolling from hut to 526 hut, eating corn and smoking Missourie tobacco. At other times they amuse themselves by running races either on foot or horseback, and performing warlike manoeuvres; they have also a favorite game which occupies much of their time.

512 [328]...this is the first work performed by the women in the 515 morning after having paid their devoirs to their lovers and washed themselves in the Missourie. ...every family being provided 415 with a brass or copper kettle for the purpose of cooking flesh.
177 Whether this proceeds from superstition or not I cannot pretend to 771 say, but they assured me that any kind of flesh cooked in those 574 earthen pots would cause them to split. One or more of the largest kind is constantly boiling prepared corn and beans, and all who come in are welcome to help themselves to as much as they can eat of the contents.

231 .....Early this morning our young hostler took our horses to feed 437 in the meadow but never allowed them to be for a moment out of 648 his sight, lest the Assiniboines or other enemies might steal them.
We purchased sweet corn, beans, meal, and various other trifles, for which we paid in ammunition, beads, and tobacco.

439 [329] It would have been in vain for us to attempt to prevail upon anyone in this village to ferry us over; for, as long as a stranger has any property, they wish him to trade all he brings in the first village he enters, every village being ambitious of getting as many 439 European articles as they can, [330] particularly arms and ammuni-609 tion. This is good policy; for, notwithstanding they are so near each other, and live in amity, they are not free from jealousy, and have 578 often had serious misunderstandings, sometimes ending in the death 569 of an individual, and nearly occasioning civil war. They have also to guard against their natural enemies, the Sioux, who are at no great distance. The Pawnees, also, with whom the Mandanes formerly lived in the same villages, are now their most inveterate enemies.
Arms and ammunition are, therefore, necessary articles, and everyone has a stock of ball and powder laid up in case of emergency.

675 We packed up our purchases, and gave them into the care of the 673 landlord. These people are much given to thieving, but in the hut
● [577] in which a stranger is lodged, his property may be left in perfect security; none dare touch it, as the master conceives his honor concerned in whatever is placed under his immediate protection.
Out of doors, if they can pick your pocket, or pilfer any article,
